

KEEPSAKE GREETING CARDS
COLLECTION 2017

Passionate about creativity, crafting, and quality experiences, I create cards that are worth holding onto. In today's fast-paced digital world it's important to stop and take a moment to appreciate real relationships and lovely, tangible gifts that strengthen those relationships. The collection of cards by Happy Whatever are designed as personal mementos and keepsakes.

While social media and e-cards appear to make interaction easier, I couldn't help but notice that it was lacking a personal touch. There's something thrilling about getting a card in the mail, and I love being surprised with thoughtful gestures.

It came to me one day that I could create more of these experiences for others. I decided that I would create personal real-life greeting cards that would give more than expected and survive the recycling bin. Win/win!

With my passion for crafting I knew I could create really sweet, long-lasting cards that would find a special place in people's homes. The result has been this collection of cards designed as personal mementos and keepsakes. The cards become a new object too lovely to throw out.

I hope that my cards may provide you or someone you love with an extra little moment of joy. Here's to all the lovely messages that will go out into the world!

Love, Jrene
